THE HOLLAND & HOLLAND SHOOTING SERIES 2003

HOSTED BY JUSTIN JONES & JOHN HIGGINS
OF THE BRITISH SCHOOL OF SHOOTING

HOLLAND & HOLLAND

LONDON

On behalf of Holland & Holland I am pleased to invite you to our new shooting clinics in the United States.

These events are intended for experienced shots and beginners alike. Numbers are limited to a maximum of four pupils per instructor, ensuring that highly personalised service for which Holland & Holland is renowned all over the world. In addition to the host instructors, we anticipate a Holland & Holland guest instructor or representative will attend most, if not all of the clinics.

All aspects of both game and clay target shooting will be covered, including advice on correct gun specification and fit, cartridge selection and barrel choke and shot size combinations for a variety of shooting situations.

In keeping with Holland & Holland's long tradition of providing only the very best for its customers, all events will be kept private and will take place at top-class venues or exclusive locations.

Whilst we expect you to bring your own guns, we are pleased to make available a limited selection of Holland & Holland demonstration guns. You will have the opportunity to use these guns and discuss your individual requirements with experts in the field.

For more information and bookings, please contact me at Holland & Holland's New York Gun Room.

The British School of Shooting is a partnership formed between internationally renowned British shooting professionals Justin Jones and John Higgins, with the intention of providing the highest calibre services covering all aspects of the shooting world to the resort industry. Their partnership brings together a formidable background in training, instructing, designing, developing, building, and managing resort shooting operations.

Specializing in resort shooting facilities, Justin Jones opened, and for twelve years managed, the Jackie Stewart Shooting School at The Gleneagles Hotel in Scotland, then spent four years upgrading and managing the shooting facility at The Cloister at Sea Island, Georgia. Justin's experience makes him one of the leading experts in the growing field of luxury resort shooting operations.

John Higgins has a background of expert shooting instruction and shooting instructor training. He spent twenty years instructing at Yeavlesley Shooting Grounds in Derbyshire, England for Edward Chadfield, and ten years instructing and training throughout the United States. John helped create and institute the national standard for training and certifying shooting instructors in the United States, as Chief Instructor for the National Sporting Clays Association (NSCA).
